PORK PICKIN'S

Appomattox Pork Producers

The Fourth Annual Area Swine School will be held next Tuesday, January 22nd at the Buckingham County Junior High School. The proceedings start at 9:30 a.m. and run to 3 p.m. A meal will be served free of charge.

There will be four topics of discussion: "Perform a n c e Testing and Gilt Selection," "Efficient Feeder Pig Production," Efficient Grain Production," and "General Health Practices."

The Piedmont Pork Producers and the Appomattox Pork Producers will hold their January meetings in conjunction with the Swine school Interested persons should try to attend. If you plan to go please contact Mr. Frank Sweet at the County Extension Office.

On this past Tuesday, the Third Tested Boar Sale was held at Courtland, Virginia. Three boars in the sale reached 220 lbs. in less than 130 days; one spotted boar of J. R. Cralle (127), and two Yorkshire Boars of Randall S. Updike (120 & 125). The best loin eye was recorded by a Duroc Boar of Mr. Lotane Trice at 6.80 sq. in. Mr. Bolling Smith of Petersburg had the only two boars which rated excellent in soundness in this test and they were of the Yorkshire breed.

More on the boar sale next week when we hope to have prices available.

The hog corn ratio in the state of Virginia and around the nation continues to decline. It now stands at 14.91. This is I believe the lowest since 1970.

real opportunity for the breeder who needs bulls to breed for early calves.

The Red House Bull Evaluation Center is located 4 miles west of Red House (south of Appomattox) on Route 615.

Sale catalogs can be requested from the Sale Manager, Owen Thomas, Inc., 10 N. Market Street, Staunton, Va. 24401. Information can also be obtained from Virginia BCIA, Agnew Hall, VPI & SU, Blacksburg, Va. 24061 which sponsors the activity, or from James Bennett, the Center Manager at Red House, Va.

Visitors are cordially invited to the Center anytime prior to or on sale day, February 2, 1974.

Just prior to the sale at 12:00 noon outstanding performance awards will be presented the top performing consignment group of three or more bulls of any breed and an award to the top performing individual bull of any breed that has 10 or more bulls in that group.

The group award will be based on the average 140 day test gain ratio and average adjusted 365 day weight ratio. Each of these criteria will be given 50% weight.

The individual awards are likewise based on the average of the 140 day test ADG ratio and the adjusted 365 day weight ratio. To be eligible, bulls must have a minimum ratio of 100 in each category. Bulls must be eligible for the sale to receive the award.

For both awards pre-test handling, soundness and desirability of conformation will be considered by the sale committee.

These awards are presented by Farmers National Bank, Appomattox, Virginia.

GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS
by Shirley W. Walton
Extension Agent
Kitchen or Minigardens for Vegetables

Home gardeners like to practice their skill during the winter as well as summer. This may be done by raising foliage flowering plants indoors.

Have you also considered the possibility of producing vegetables in the house? This can be an interesting hobby and will provide a limited harvest of food. A few may be grown as these plants, or in a planter, but do not expect miracles.

Try only about five vegetables such as chive, parsley, pepper, tomato, and radish. Many others have been suggested for the indoor minigarden, but are not as well adapted to home conditions as those suggested here.

You will need some pots or buckets six inches in diameter and larger. Use a fertile soil mixture with a high humus content. Provide good drainage with broken crockery and crushed stone or gravel in the bottom of each pot.

Chive is a fine crop for the kitchen garden. It grows like small onions with leaves about six inches tall. These plants prefer cool conditions and good light, and will grow quite well on a window sill in the kitchen.

One or two pots of chive will provide leaves for seasoning salads and soup. Plant seeds or small bulbs in a six inch pot. The plants should be about one inch apart over the entire surface area. It will require about 12 weeks from the time seeds are planted until leaves can be cut.

Parsley is another good crop for raising in the house. Plant seeds directly into six inch pots, or transplant young healthy plants from the garden. One vigorous plant per pot is enough. Parsley develops attractive, greea, curly leaves about six or eight inches tall. It will require about 10 to 12 weeks after planting the seeds before leaves can be clipped for garnish.

The Tiny Tim tomato may be raised quite satisfactorily in the home. One plant is a 10 inch pot will challenge your gardening ability, and supply small small cherry size fruits which can be eaten whole or served with salad. The Tiny Tim tomato grows to a height of about 12 to 15 inches.

You may also try the new Small Fry which is about three feet tall. The paste type tomato Roma may also be grown indoors. These will need more space than Tiny Tim and should be located on a porch or in a conservatory setting.

Some of the small fruited peppers may be grown as house plants. Like tomatoes, they prefer warm conditions and may grow quite well for you. Fruits will be ready to harvest from peppers and tomatoes in about 10 weeks after planting.

For a quick growing crop try radishes. These will be ready to eat in four weeks. They must be grown very rapidly if they are to be crisp and succulent. Scatter radish seeds on moist soil in a six or eight inch pot. Cover with about one-fourth inch of soil and place a piece of glass over the pot to conserve moisture until the seeds germinate.

Thin young radish plants to about one inch apart. Grow your radishes in a cool but sunny place. An unheated size porch is fine as long as it does not freeze. Radishes will grow very poorly in a warm house with poor light.

Recipe of the Week
BUCKAROO BEANS

2 cups (1 lb.) dried pinto or red beans
6 cups water
2 med.-sized onions, thinly sliced
2 lg cloves garlic, thinly sliced
1 small bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
½ lb. salt pork, slab bacon, or smoked ham
1 can (1 lb) whole tomatoes
½ cup coarsely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon crushed oregano or cumin

1. Wash beans, drain and place in heavy kettle or saucepot. Add the water and bring rapidly to boiling. Gradually add the beans so that boiling does not stop; boil 2 min. and remove from heat. Set aside covered 1 hr. (If desired, pour the water over the washed beans in kettle, cover, and let stand over overnight. Do not drain.)

2. Stir in the onion, garlic, bay leaf, and salt. (If salt pork is used add salt later.)

3. Wash salt pork thoroughly. Slice through pork or bacon twice each way not quite to the rind. Cut Ham into ½-in cubes, if used. Add meat to beans and bring rapidly to boiling. (To prevent foam from forming, add 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.) Cover saucepot tightly and cook slowly about 1½ hrs.

4. Stir in tomatoes, green pepper, and a mixture of the last four ingredients. Bring rapidly to boiling and reduce heat. Season to taste with salt and simmer, covered, 6 hrs. or longer; remove cover the last hour of cooking, if desired. If necessary, gently stir beans occasionally to avoid sticking on bottom of kettle. There should be just enough liquid remaining on beans to resemble a medium-thick sauce.

WOW Ladies Enjoy Dinner

The extremely cold weather kept some of the ladies home but an evening of good food and fellowship was enjoyed by all who attended.

Modernistic Club News

Due to the failure of the heating system at Galilee Baptist Sunday, the church school was unable to have regular classes as was planned. A number of the Sunday School members journeyed to First Baptist Church, and enjoyed the church school there very much. The lesson was interesting and well taught, and a very nice number turned out. Those who attended classes, gained much helpful information to ponder over during the week.

Regular preaching service was held at First Baptist at the 11:00 o'clock service hour. The pastor Rev. Davis was at his post and preached to an appreciative audience.

The community was saddened to learn of the passing of the late Walter Beasley. Funeral services were held Sunday at Springfield Baptist with his pastor, the Rev. Rose officiating. A large number turned out for the services. Relatives and friends from for and near came to witness the services.

Our hearts go out in deep sympathy to the Beasley and Pankey families. We commend you to the Heavenly Father, who knows what is best for all mankind.

News have come to the Stevens family of the passing of a cousin, the late Arthur Robinson, of Brooklyn, N. Y. who died at his home Saturday. Funeral arrangements have not been announced or given at this writing. Arthur was a step son of the late Mr. Samuel Robinson, the brother of the late Lucy J. Stevens. The family desires prayers from our pastor, and many friends in the hour of distress at this point.

We do hope that the sick are still holding their own. We haven't heard from any of the sick this week. We are still praying for their recovery.

In and out of town:

All of the Pankey children came to attend the funeral of their uncle, and many relatives and friends came also.

Mr. and Mrs. Madison of Lynchburg, Virginia visited in the home of the Stevens Sunday afternoon. The Stevens were proud to greet their guest. Mrs. Madison is the niece of the late Mrs. Laura Patterson.

See you next week!!!

STONEWALL EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS CLUB

The Stonewall Extension Homemakers Club met with Lillian Routon on January 10, 1974 with nine member present.

Our president read a poem, "New Year's Wish."

While the Pennies for Friendship were being collected, the roll was called and the minutes read.

Mrs. Routon read Psalm 67 as the devotion.

Our president reported on the Christmas basket which she had delivered.

Annette Alvis was chosen to represent the club at the "Downtown Appomattox" committee meetings. We discussed the Trunk Workshop. The president told us that the handbooks would be ready for us in about two weeks.

Mrs. Foster presented the Federation Program, "How Does Your Community Rate?"

Helen Routon brought us a film on "Downtown Appomattox." After that we had a very interesting program. We adjourned with the Homemaker's Creed and prayer, and enjoyed refreshments and fellowship.
